

Access to electronic databases

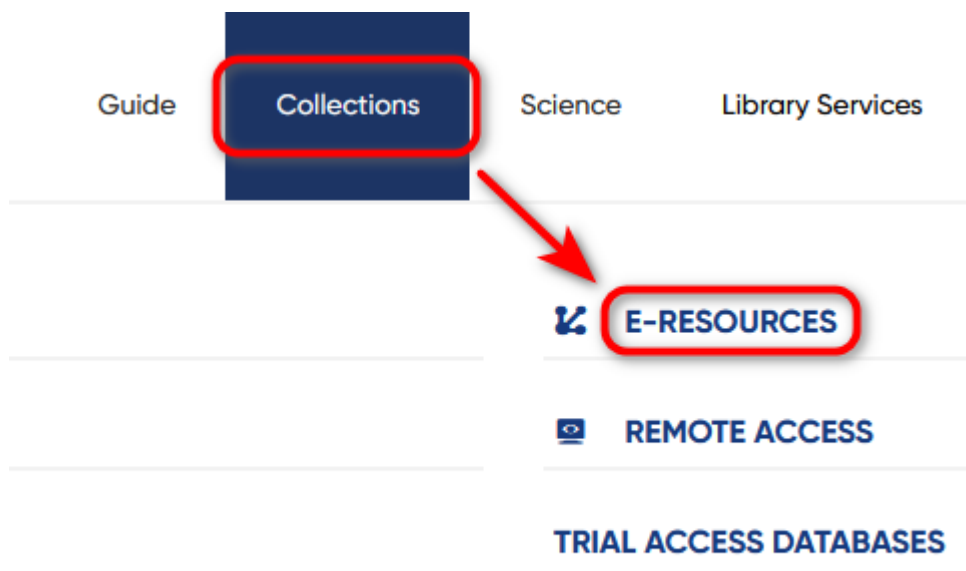

From March 2024 access to electronic databases subscribed by UKSW is carried out using the Hidden Automation Navigator (HAN) system. HAN is an automatic authentication system, working on a proxy basis, using the Microsoft365 UKSW login.

There is currently a transitional period in which remote access, as well as from the UKSW network, requires login via Microsoft365 UKSW. After the transition period, access from the University network will not require a login.

The current remote access platform, Pulpit UKSW, will be deactivated.

In order to use e-resources in this way, you need to:

1. Go to biblioteka.uksw.edu.pl/en/, choose Collections, and then E-RESOURCES tab.

2. Choose a database and click on its name.

The screenshot shows the login interface for UKSW. At the top, there is the UKSW logo and name: "UKSW UNIwersYTET KARDYNAŁA STEFANA WYSZYŃSKIEGO W WARSZAWIE". Below this, the language is set to "English". The login form contains two main fields: "identyfikator" (Microsoft 365 ID) and "hasło" (USOSWeb Password). Below these fields is a link "Nie pamiętasz hasła?". A blue "Zaloguj" button is positioned to the right. At the bottom, there is a note: "Zaloguj się na stronie, używając uczelnianego identyfikatora w postaci: identyfikator@uksw.edu.pl" followed by examples: "np. 12345@uksw.edu.pl (studenci)" and "i.nazwisko@uksw.edu.pl (pracownicy)".

3. After correct authorization, the name of the University will be displayed, in most cases, in the upper part of the database page.

Not all databases show the name of the University after logging in.

To use the resources of the Thesaurus Linguae Graecae database, an individual account must be created.
